Three Big Books — True Stories

THE STORY OF A GREAT PLAYWRIGHT

Molière: A Biography

By H. C. CHATFIELD-TAYLOR

Introduction by Professor T. F. CRANE, of Cornell; pictures by "Job." Pp. XXIV-446. $3.00 net; postage 24 cents.

"The total result is a biography which will rank among the best that America has ever produced, a fine tribute to the genius of a great and friendly nation, and a permanent contribution to the world's literature."—Chicago Evening Post.

A GREAT CRITIC

Reminiscences of My Childhood and Youth

By GEORGE BRANDES

A delightful book of recollections. $2.50 net; postage 16 cents.

"It is a piece of self-revelation by a master of psychological analysis, and it is a picture of events and personages prominent on the page of European history in the third quarter of the nineteenth century seen through the prism of a very rich temperament."—Literary Digest.

A GREAT FIGHTER

Geronimo's Story of his Life

Taken down by S. M. BARRETT

Illustrated, $1.50 net; postage 14 cents.

"About a dozen army officers and War Department men declared that these reminiscences of old Geronimo must never be printed. But Theodore Roosevelt said they should be printed, and they have been. They make a book worthy of all praise."

The Legend of Sleepy Hollow

This sparkling gem of humor has been the ambition and the despair of illustrators for many, many years.

Now for the first time pictures have been made that will thoroughly delight the many lovers of this classic.

Mr. Keller has done them much as Washington Irving himself would have, if he had been the artist with the brush that he was with the pen.

IK MARVEL'S
MASTERPIECE

Fifty years ago Donald G. Mitchell wove the joy and pathos of love into airy fancies and delicious dreams. His words keep them and will ever keep them beautifully alive in letters.

Now, at last, Mr. Ashe, the brilliant American Illustrator, has given the tender reveries a form in pictures as fair and graceful as their form in words. He has made a jewel casket of a book.

The Ashe Edition of Reveries of a Bachelor is fashioned to delight all lovers—all the world.

THREE WINNING CANDIDATES FOR THIS SEASON'S SUCCESS

Norman Duncan

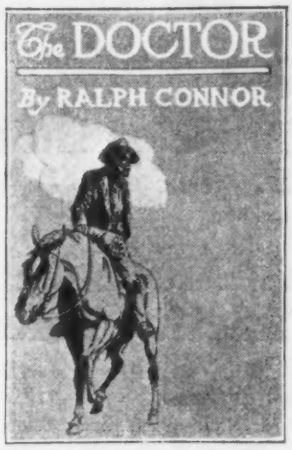
A ripping story of adventure—an ideal boy's book. Everybody, young or old, who has read Stevenson's "Treasure Island" or "Robinson Crusoe," will find the same charm in this northern tale, with an individuality all its own. By the author of "Doctor Luke," etc.

The Adventures of

Billy Topsail

Ralph Connor



$1.50

Ralph Connor's power as novelist here approaches maturity. He compels alternate tears and laughter as in his other tales; but in skilful disposal of material and in conception and development of plot, he far surpasses all his previous work.

Author of "Black Rock"

The Doctor

Robert E. Knowles

$1.50

A story of victorious struggle for the mastery with life's undertow told with fervor and pathos—the sympathy that helps, not the scorn that scorches. It more than justifies the promise of the earlier work, "St. Cuthbert's."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

We publish November 8th a novel which is creating a tremendous sensation in England

The Viper of Milan

By Marjorie Bowen

Singularly fascinating — magnificently done
You may call it the greatest romance in ten years

¶ The English press is hailing the arrival of a new genius in historical romance. With a unanimity that is inspiring, British critics pronounce "The Viper of Milan" a wonderful performance. Already Miss Bowen is being classed with the great romancers of our time.

¶ There are no more striking and magnificently sombre figures in history than those of some of the tyrants of mediæval Italy; and the last of the Viscontis, Gian Galeazzo Maria, Duke of Milan, is one of the most dazzling among them. Around this splendid tyrant the author has woven a wonderfully fine romance.

¶ Words fail to describe the fascination of this book. It palpitates with life—love, war and adventure glow on every page. It is alive with color; there are a thousand small and intensely human touches that give vividness and truth to the scenes. It presents a magnificent, lurid picture of fourteenth-century Italy.

The Novel of the Season

Laugh and Live Long

Now Ready

Now Ready

The whole world has repeatedly asked "Why They Married." Nobody seemed to know.

We thought it was about time some truthful and discerning person stepped up and told.

There are one-half a hundred real reasons in this little book, every one done in verse so polished one can see one's face in it, together with faithfully unflattering portraits of the persons talked about.

The book is the right size for a pocket. When Gwendolyn says in withering tones, "I wonder what he ever saw in her!" flash the volume on her and turn to the right page and there's the answer, painfully simple but blindingly true!

There is no one too dignified, too high in social or official circles to come under one of those fifty fatal facts. There they are nailed! Like a collection of butterflies or beetles they are impaled for your inspection—all you have to do is to turn to the right page, twist the pin and see them writhe!

JANE CABLE

By

George Barr McCutcheon

Author of

"BEVERLY OF GRAUSTARK"

"From cover to cover, of course, the reader is kept qui vive as to what will happen next. McCutcheon is an adept in keeping the interest of his story always at a high level. The swift succession of incidents does not flag; the story always moves swiftly. So the lover of fiction need never fear that this new story will prove disappointing."—Brooklyn Eagle.

"'Jane Cable' is as good as 'Beverly of Graustark,' 'Graustark' or any of the other half dozen novels which he has sent out."—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

"The characterization of this tale is good. The people are real and living, and excite the interest in their various personalities from the beginning."—The Milwaukee Sentinel.

"Having once become interested in the dainty personality of 'Jane Cable' no reader will be satisfied to lay the book aside until having seen her safely enfolded in her lover's arms after trying days of trouble and perplexity."—Albany Evening Journal.

PRISONERS

By

Mary Cholmondeley

Author of

"RED POTTAGE"

"That 'Prisoners' is its author's first novel since 'Red Pottage' is significant of a reverence for her art, which permits no hurried work. She and her public reap the reward of her restraint, for, during the six or seven years which have elapsed since the publication of 'Red Pottage' she has taken great strides, and in 'Prisoners' has produced a novel so finely conceived and executed that criticism is lost in sheer delight and admiration."—New York Times, Saturday Review of Books.

"The story is a powerful one and suggestive in the best sense of the word of the great facts of human life, the essential elements of human character."—New York Sun.

"This book devoured hastily at first by reason of its absorbing story almost inevitably will receive a second reading for its brilliancy of thought and keen cleverness of character depiction."—Chicago Record Herald.

"This novel is first of all interesting. It has a veritable story, full of surprises, climbing steadily to the culminating point."—New York Evening Post.

NOTES IN SEASON.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. will publish on the 8th inst. a novel entitled "The Viper of Milan," by Marjorie Bowen, dealing with one of the most striking and magnificently sombre figures in history, the last of the Viscontis—Gian Galeozza Maria, Duke of Milan. The English press hails the author as "one of the great romancers of our time."

BRENTANO'S have just ready a fine edition of Cellini's autobiography, one of the most fascinating classics of European literature, translated by John Addington Symonds, and provided with an elaborate introduction by Royal Cortissoz. The work is brought out in two volumes, printed on special hand-made paper, and contains forty full-page photogravure illustrations.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have just brought out in book form "Captain Lettarblair," the comedy by Marguerite Merington, in which E. H. Sothern and Virginia Harned made one of their earliest and greatest successes. It is illustrated with photographs of the play and arranged from the prompt-book used in the original Lyceum production. The lines throughout are capitally clever.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have just ready "The Chase of the Golden Plate," by Jaques Futrelle, a delightful story of a mystery connected with the strange disappearance of certain family golden plate, with illustrations by Will Grefé; "The Swarm," by Maurice Maeterlinck, author of "The Life of the Bee," etc., with illustrations; "Rome Described by Great Writers," by Esther Singleton, whose selections along these lines in her books on London, Paris, Japan, Russia and Holland, with their wealth of illustration, have always made pleasant and informing reading; "Versailles," by M. Nolhac, the keeper of Versailles, a sumptuous volume with illustrations in color by M. Binet; "Twenty Years of the Republic," by Professor Henry Thurston Peck, an interesting résumé of the history of the United States from the Cleveland-Blaine campaign in 1884 to the present day; "Sir Joshua and His Circle," by Fitzgerald Molloy, in two volumes, fully illustrated; also, "Peter Poodle, Toy Maker to the King," a book for children from four to eight years old, written and illustrated by Will Bradley, the well-known designer.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish on the 10th inst. "The First Forty Years of Washington Society," from the letters and journals of Mrs. Samuel Harrison Smith (Margaret Bayard), edited by Gaillard Hunt, a delightful history of Washington in the early part of the nineteenth century, with numerous illustrations and portraits; "The Coast of Bohemia," a volume of poems by Thomas Nelson Page, including those published "Befo' de War," with many which he has since written; "The Queen's Museum," a selection of the most popular of Frank R. Stockton's fanciful tales, with illustrations in color by Frederic Richardson; "The Field and Forest Handy Book," new ideas for out-of-doors, written and illustrated by Dan Beard; "Things Worth Doing," a capital book for girls, written and illustrated by Lina and Adelia Beard; "The Dogs of War," by Walter Emanuel, the inimitable account of two dogs, with illustrations by Cecil Alden; also, two volumes in the new edition of Ibsen's works, edited by William Archer—"A Doll's House" and "Ghosts," and "The Vikings" and "The Pretender," each in one volume.

Burnett, Mrs. Frances Hodgson, [now Mrs. Stephen Townesend.] Queen Silver-Bell. N. Y., Century Co., 1906. [N.] c. 3-133 p. col. il. sq. S. cl., †60 c.

With this little book the author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" begins a series of fairy tales. "Queen Silver-Bell" in the opening chapters talks eloquently about the decay among children of the belief in fairies. Seeking for some remedy to restore her lost power she consults the Lord High Chief Dormouse, who is considered very wise as he spends his winters in thinking. He advises her to write books about the fairies and tell every one how much more sense they have than people who are just people. Her first story, "How Winnie hatched the rooks," is embraced under these covers. The second volume of the series, "Racketty-Packetty House," follows.

Prefaced with an introduction, by William T. Harris, explaining the author's methods and aims. She discusses simple questions of right and wrong within the comprehension of boys and girls from thirteen to eighteen, working out thoroughly the problems which they themselves have begun to feel and discuss but which they rarely carry far. These questions are connected with aspects of their lives other than those of school—with athletics, with society, with any kind of art which appeals to them or any story they may be reading, and above all with any striking event which may have interested them. The work includes a teachers' key, with questions on the essays of the first part, and suggested readings and methods of teaching.

A volume of twenty sermons preached by the minister of the Old South Church, Boston. They are variations on one persistent theme: "the incarnation of God in Jesus the perfect man, in all men as moral beings, in all good men as the life of their life." The author wrote to refute the ideas of John Fiske's interesting book, entitled "Through nature to God." The author claims that Christianity is the interpretation of the Eternal life through human nature, its highest expression.

Gray, J: Thompson. A Kentucky chronicle. Wash., D. C., Neale Publishing Co., 1906. c. 3-590 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A story based upon conditions in Kentucky in the early days of the nineteenth century. For obvious reasons names have been sometimes changed, but in all else it is a veritable chronicle of a phase of the early civilization of Kentucky, common in its leading features to most of the slaves states. Reginald Thornton, a Virginian, a stately, kindly gentleman of the old school, emigrates to Kentucky, establishing himself at Lastlands. It is the life of his children, his grandchildren, their friends and enemies, their lovers and detractors and servants that forms the heart of the book.

Some time last year the sensational announcement was made that Professor Haeckel had abandoned Darwinism. Professor Haeckel delivered these lectures in Berlin defining his position, and it is said they are the last public deliverance the aged professor will ever make. These lectures are here reproduced by a devoted "apostle" of Professor Haeckel. Rarely has the great biologist spoken in such clear and untechnical phrases, so that the general reader will easily understand the outlines of his much discussed Monism. The lectures are separately entitled: The controversy about creation; The struggle over our genealogical tree; The controversy over the soul.

Portions of this volume have appeared in the World's Work under the title "The confessions of a commercial senator." Author explains that monopoly is the story of something for nothing—of making the other fellow pay; he explains the lust for franchises, mining rights, tariff privileges, railway control and tax evasions; also explains how all monopoly is bottomed in legislation, on laws born in corruption. He proves that monopoly palsies industry, trade, life itself. He claims the United States Senate is the refuge of monopoly. Its members no longer are representatives of the commonwealths whose names they bear, but of the big business interests whose directors, attorneys and agents they are.

Martin, M. C. The other Miss Lisle. N. Y., Benziger Bros., 1906. c. 3-282 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Sylvia Lisle, an English girl in ill health, is ordered to Cape Town by her physician, in the hope that she will be benefited by the climate. Her sister Christine, "the other Miss Lisle," has been Sylvia's unselfish nurse since their mother's death. She carries out her self-sacrifice at Cape Town to the extent of accepting a man who pleases Sylvia, but whom she does not love. There is another man both of the girls love, who only wants Christine, and who takes part in the Boer war thinking his love hopeless. The chief characters are Catholics; arguments are given against "mixed" marriages.

Mears, Mary M. The breath of the runners: a novel. N. Y., Frederick A. Stokes Co., [1906.] c. 7+293 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The "runners" are girl artists whose passionate friendship finally succumbs on the one side to the jealousy of artists. Story begins in New York City, then shifts to Paris. The chief heroine is a whole-souled woman, who for years keeps her talent secondary to that of her jealous friend. Gives a stirring description of the grinding, unending work required to "succeed" with the present high standard of execution in art works. The unselfish, indefatigable carver of cameos and sculptor finds her enduring happiness in the love of a man as unselfish as herself.

Mottram, W: The true story of George Eliot in relation to "Adam Bede"; giving the real life history of the more prominent characters by William Mottram; with 86 il., mainly from photographs, by Allan P. Mottram and Vernon H. Mottram. [American ed.] Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1906. [O13.] 20+307 p. pors. D. cl., *$1.75 net.

Author is grandnephew of Adam and Seth Bede and a cousin of George Eliot. He shows "Adam Bede" to have been founded on facts. The prototype of Adam Bede was Robert Evans, the father of George Eliot; Dinah Morris was the aunt of George Eliot, and with her these reminiscences are specially concerned. Devotes some pages to the evolution of George Eliot's religious convictions and explains that, under the circumstances, her life with George Henry Lewis was only a sin because of legal technicalities, which he points out were almost wholly geographical.

New York [City.] Common Council. Old English records of the city of New York, 1675-1776: minutes of the Common Council; ed. by Prof. Herbert L. Osgood; published under the authority of the city of New York. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1906. 8°, cl., per set, $17.50 net.

Editorial work has been done under the immediate supervision of Professor Herbert L. Osgood, of Columbia University. An elaborate index to the series has been prepared by C. A. Nelson, of the Columbia University Library. These Minutes of the Common Council comprise in their entries by far the most important collection of material relating to the early administration of municipal affairs in New York which has survived. Nearly all the papers of the Common Council, except those which were spread upon its minutes, have disappeared. The original rough minutes themselves have also, for the most part, been destroyed, and the text which is here presented is based chiefly upon two copies of them made long ago. A belief that the printing of these minutes was a necessary condition for the study of the early growth of city government in this country has led to this undertaking.

Ober, F: Albion. Vasco Nuñez de Balboa. N. Y., Harper, 1906. [O.] c. 7+286 p. il. por. map, D. (Heroes of American history.) cl., $1 net.

Tells the adventures of Vasco Nuñez de Balboa, soldier of fortune, who was probably one of the most generous and high-minded of all the Spanish-American conquerors. Mr. Ober begins with Balboa's experiences in Santo Domingo and the expedition from there, under the command of Francisco de Enciso, which was headed for Darien, where, taking advantage of an insurrection, Balboa made himself supreme head in the new colony. Here confused accounts of a great Western ocean reached him, and in 1513 he started in quest of it, obtaining his first view of the Pacific "from a peak in Darien."

The purpose is to tell the story of the incentives, making, ratification and amendment of our Constitution. The plan is, first, to narrate something of those conditions in England which influenced the political sentiments of early American colonists and the significant events in the founding of the Colonies, in order that readers shall have in mind what character of political bodies united under the Constitution. Next is shown the growth of the idea of union, the causes which strengthened and spread it and the forms in which it was expressed in famous documents. This carries the narrative through the period of government under the Articles of Confederation up to the time when public opinion resulted in the call for the Philadelphia Constitutional Convention.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

NOVEMBER 3, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

SCHOOLS FOR BOOKSELLERS.

THE subject of special industrial and commercial education is steadily gaining favor, and everywhere it is engaging the attention, to greater or less extent, not only of employers, but of thinking statesmen as well. This is especially true in European countries in which trades are centralized in certain large cities, or in which merchants are intent upon training competent help for certain foreign markets. Every effort is made in these countries to train and develop the intellectuality and manual dexterity of their artisans and the all-around efficiency of their mercantile apprentices.

In Europe, and in this country also, our allies, the printer and book manufacturer in general, have already realized the necessity of supplementing the manual training of their apprentices and junior assistants with a more special technical training in order to develop and raise the average standard of intelligent workmanship in the various branches of their trades. In Europe—on the Continent particularly—greater progress has been possible in this direction than elsewhere, because there the trade and commercial organizations are more closely knit together—approximate more nearly to the discipline of the old-time gilds—than in other countries. But to whatever circumstances it may be due, the result of this training has made itself felt in many directions, and is perhaps most noticeable in the excellently trained help sent out each year by the German merchants to foreign markets, in which, by reason of their intimate advance knowledge of the country in which they are expected to settle, the language—commercial and colloquial, the people and their peculiar traits, the goods they handle and the other intricacies of their relations in their new field, they are able not only to hold their own against those who are already in the market, but in many cases to supplant these, as has happened not infrequently in the South American markets.

As science progresses; as the desire for and need of learning develops; as space and time are annihilated by modern means of communication and the relations between the inhabitants of the world are extended, so the bookseller's field of activity is bound to enlarge, and his work will grow in importance. To be prepared for this development the bookseller's knowledge of things and men must extend beyond the narrow circle in which he was born and raised; it must embrace a comprehensive acquaintance with world bibliographies and literature, and be able to keep pace with intellectual and scientific development in all its manifestations, so that his part in the progress will not be restricted to simply that of a "store help" attending to the "orders" of his customers, but be elevated to that of an educator, leading his clients in their tastes and in their literary requirements. Viewed from this point the book trade will truly take its place among the professions which require of their followers large and varied knowledge.

It can hardly be denied that the whole book trade would be materially benefited by better trained help than it has been possible to obtain under present circumstances. The employer, however conscientious he may be in directing the beginner, is, as a rule, too much occupied with the larger administration of his business to spare the time for the necessary instruction of his apprentices, and his senior assistant is also too much occupied in attending to regular duties to be utilized as a teacher; and so the beginner is left to struggle along as best he may. If he can adapt himself to his environment and is observing he may in time fill his place more or less acceptably; if not, he will become an encumbrance or drift away into the ranks of the inefficient, untrained workers.

The International Congress of Publishers, at its convention in Brussels in 1897, considered the report on the subject of booktrade schools, by Ernest Vandeveld, and recommended action on the part of its members to favor the establishment of schools for booksellers in their more important localities. Two years later M. Baranger, at the London convention of the International Publishers' Congress, submitted the programme of a proposed school for booksellers in France. Since that time the subject has been taken up at each annual convention of the Congress, the results of which have been reported to the Permanent Bureau at Berne as follows:

Germany maintains a school for booksellers at Leipzig, founded by the booksellers in that city in 1852. The school admits as pupils only the apprentices of members of the Society of Booksellers of Leipzig. The course is from one to three years, and applicants must pass a prescribed examination before they can be admitted. The school hours are from seven till nine o'clock in the morning and from two till four o'clock in the afternoon. The faculty consists of a director and fourteen teachers. The cost of instruction varies, but for some time has not exceeded ten dollars a year. About two hundred pupils attend the school each year.

The Leipzig society of printers and that of the senior booksellers' assistants, during the winter of 1904-05, arranged for a number of lectures on the history of the book, type and its production, the manufacture of paper, composition, wood engraving, the various processes of the reproductive arts, printing, bookbinding, etc., to which the pupils of the booksellers' school, and booksellers generally, were admitted free of charge.

The booksellers of Berlin during the past year also provided lectures on the various activities of the retail bookseller and publisher, the legal aspects of the book trade, how to establish a book business, keeping stock, bibliography, etc., to which a small fee was charged for attendance.

The Austrian book trade, since November, 1904, has maintained a bookseller's school in Vienna. Instruction is given during the winter on Sunday mornings. Besides this school the book trade gilds* of St. Pölten, Prague, Cracow and Lemberg also provide special instruction for their apprentices.

The Belgian book trade, in March last, established a Musée du Livre, at which it is proposed to give lectures and to provide instruction, orally and by specially-prepared literature, in the knowledge of the manufacture and sale of books.

In France, the employees of the book trade of Paris in 1901 formed a society similar to the Booksellers' League of New York City, which provides occasional lectures and "talks" on book trade subjects.

The Italian book trade in Milan, in 1903, proposed to add a school for booksellers to its technical school for printers and book manufacturers, the Ecole du Livre, founded in 1884. The opening of this branch, however, has been delayed.

The Swedish book trade associations organized a school for booksellers in June, 1905. The course is to extend from one to three years, and includes instruction in the Swedish and German languages, elementary instruction in English, French and other languages, in the history of literature, in book-keeping and mathematics generally, in the practical work of the bookseller and in typography, bookbinding and paper manufacture. The school hours are from eight till eleven in the forenoon and from twelve till three in the afternoon each day, except Thursdays, on which the afternoon sessions are suspended for visits to printing offices, book binderies and paper mills for practical instruction in these industries.

Denmark maintains two industrial schools for printers and bookbinders, in which instruction is also given in the Danish and German languages, and in the Danish and world literatures and bibliographies.

Spain has two industrial schools for printers, one of which it is proposed to enlarge sufficiently to admit of a course for booksellers.

This result of the propaganda of the International Publishers' Congress, though meagre, is nevertheless encouraging. It will not require another decade to bring about the establishment of at least one book trade school in every country represented in the Congress, particularly as the value and importance of such schools is fully recognized by the trade throughout the world. It depends only upon a start, even if the beginning consists at first merely of lectures given by competent men upon subjects that interest booksellers. The lectures provided by the Young Men's Christian Association in New York City last winter were quite well attended by members of the book trade who were enthusiastic over the benefits derived. But these lectures appealed to the manufacturers of books rather than to the men who sell books, and besides, the price of admission was prohibitive enough to bar the younger men whom it would be desirable to reach through such lectures. The Booksellers' League has already done good work in this direction and must probably be depended upon to develop its entertainments along the lines outlined above. Its means being limited, the League in this work should have the hearty and active co-operation of the whole publishing trade in providing lecturers from its ranks and from the ranks of allied trades as well as in providing suitable quarters in which these lectures may be given. Money so laid out should not be regarded as money spent but money well invested, for next to making a good book there is nothing so indispensable to the trade as creating an efficient distributor of that book.

*Bookselling being practically a monopoly in Austria, a person must obtain a license before he can engage in the book business. The candidate must give proof of his general fitness, but it is not required that he must have served an apprenticeship in a bookstore, notwithstanding the fact that the Industrial Code does require an apprentice term of booksellers.

At the hearings in Washington on the pending copyright bill, the opposition came solely from two sources: those libraries which were not content with the compromise arranged by the delegates of the American Library Association, and the manufacturers of mechanical musical instruments and the rolls or discs used in connection with them. Under the leadership of Mr. W. P. Cutter, of Northampton, the dissenting libraries were organized into a so-called "Library Copyright League," which should more properly be called an anti-copyright league. The automatic-music manufacturers have found a useful hint in this proceeding and have now organized into an "American Musical Copyright League," to "protect the interests of the public" and "to pass a copyright law fair to the manufacturers," who claim to have $70,000,000 invested on the basis of the piracy of the works of musical composers. The American Copyright League was organized in 1883 to maintain the rights of authors and extend legal recognition of them, and the American Publishers' Copyright League was later organized to co-operate toward this end. The protesting libraries, and now the automatic-music publishers, have made free with the livery or name of these organizations to serve a contrary purpose. This is not quite fair play in either case; but, aside from the misuse of the name, it is to be said for the libraries that they have no sordid interests involved. The "American Musical Copyright League," on the contrary, is organized solely from selfish reasons, to prevent or impede the passage of a copyright law which gives to musical composers the same rights as literary and dramatic authors, and the fact that these "pirates" of the present day have made a profit on $70,000,000 capital by taking the works of musical composers without paying for them, makes their opposition the best proof of the necessity of the proposed law.

BRONSON HOWARD ON AMERICAN AND ENGLISH COPYRIGHT LAWS.

"The new law in Great Britain providing a criminal penalty for the infringement of musical copyright," according to Bronson Howard, the president of the Dramatists' Club, in the New York World, "is of great significance on both sides of the ocean.

"In Great Britain nearly all the musical publishers had approached the very edge of bankruptcy; in some cases they had fallen to the edge; and they had even combined in an agreement not to publish certain classes of music at all, notably, what are known as popular songs and melodies. The writers of these songs were losing all profit in them, being obliged to turn to other forms of authorship, and the composers were simply at the starving point. Meantime, the pirate chiefs, publishing without slightest fear of the British law as it stood before the passage of this statute, were building magnificent private residences and flaunting their success in the faces of honest men.

"It was due to exertions of almost martyr-like determination and persistence on the part of T. P. O'Connor that the new law was framed and passed, and the English-speaking world certainly owes him the praise and gratitude that a martyr to civilization and honesty deserves.

"This new British law has a peculiar significance in America just at this time, when a complete revision of our entire copyright legislation is before the present Congress in the hands of the Committee on Patents.

"The provision for a criminal penalty has existed in the United States for about ten years—since the passage of the now famous 'Section 4966'—signed by President Cleveland in 1897. But this penalty applies only to infringement of dramatic and musical copyright by illegal production on the stage. It is now desired to extend this production to the printed book and the printed sheet of music. It is evident that our legislators will have before them this proposition. The United States has led our English-speaking world in making a certain kind of infringement a crime, as in other cases of theft, but Great Britain has now taken a long step ahead of us by broadening and extending that protection. Shall we lag behind Great Britain or advance still another step, again putting ourselves in the position of leader? If the proposed bill as it now stands before the Committee on Patents becomes a law, we shall take that step in the world's leadership. A slight modification of the criminal clause would put us side by side with Great Britain, but if the criminal clause is omitted entirely, as its enemies desire, we shall fall back to the rear in the march of nations."

PROFITS FROM VICTOR HUGO'S PLAYS.

Paul Meurice, the editor of the new "national edition" of the works of Victor Hugo, has been making some inquiries as to the profits earned by the great writer's plays, and found that the most successful of his pieces was "Ruy Blas." It ran for 49 nights in 1838, and for 48 nights when revived in 1841. Then followed an interval of 31 years, at the expiration of which, in 1872, it was again staged at the Odéon and ran for 145 nights. It has since been played at intervals, and, by July, 1904, the total receipts amounted to 2,351,693 francs ($470,335). "Hernani" has up to date earned nearly $400,000, and "Les Burgraves" $64,000. The worst failure was "Esmeralda," written for the music of Mlle. Louise Bertin, of the family of the Bertins of the Journal des Débâts. Altogether M. Meurice calculates that, between 1828 and 1904, Victor Hugo's plays produced about $1,400,000, of which about $200,000 went to the author in royalties. The royalties are now drawn by the poet's surviving daughter, Mlle. Adèle Hugo.

OBITUARY NOTES.

Emil Sutro, who died on October 27 in New York City, was born at Aix-la-Chapelle, in Germany, February 16, 1832. He came to this country in 1850 to join his brother Adolph, who was one of the pioneers in California. After spending some time in the West, he returned to the East, and in 1880 founded in Philadelphia the firm of E. Sutro & Son, manufacturers of hosiery. Since 1890 he had devoted himself to literary work. He published several metaphysical works treating of the existence of a double element in the human voice, among which were "The Basic Law of Vocal Utterance," "The Duality of the Voice" and "The Duality of Thought and Language."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

Announcement was made on October 30, at Lexington, Ky., of the engagement of Miss Eva C. Stevenson, of that city, to George W. Cable, author and lecturer. Miss Stevenson is a daughter of Robert Stevenson, a former member of Congress.

Henry Mills Alden, who for thirty-seven years has been editor of Harper's Magazine, will be seventy years old on November 10. The firm with which he has been identified so long is preparing to give him a big birthday party in their offices on Franklin Square, to which everybody of note in the literary world will be invited.

Captain Paul B. Malone, the author of the popular books for boys, "Winning His Way to West Point" and "A Plebe at West Point," is stationed in Cuba with the army of pacification. He is in command of the guard at General Bell's headquarters at Marianao, Province of Havana, Cuba, and during his leisure from military duties is hard at work on the third volume in the series—"A West Point Yearling," which is soon to be published.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Belleville, Kan.—H. G. Benson has sold his book and stationery business to J. C. Dawson.

Carson, Okla.—I. Francis has succeeded to the book and stationery business of Bertha Bayne.

Mangum, Okla.—Z. T. Pryse has sold his book and stationery store to W. N. Greer.

Marissa, Mo.—The Uncle Sam Book and Stationery Co. have filed articles of incorporation in Missouri. The incorporators are W. H. Bowles, R. W. Chestnut and J. R. Tweed.

York, Neb.—G. A. Howe has sold his book and stationery store to B. Taylor.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

The H. W. Wilson Company, Minneapolis, has just brought out "The United States Catalog: Supplement 1902, '03, '04, '05," in which the books covered by the dates are not only entered under author, title and subject, but in which the original catalogue of 1902 has also been revised as to changes of publishers and prices and other corrections, a feature which has added about 300 pages to the Supplement. The classification of books has been revised and the subject lists have been subdivided, notably under such subjects at Botany, Chemistry, Education, Countries and Languages, by which it is hoped reference will be simplified and expedited. The Library of Congress Card Catalog numbers have now been added for the four years covered in the Supplement. (2034 p. 8°. hf. mor.)

Karslake & Co., London, have published the third volume of their "Book Auction Records," covering the period from October, 1905, to August 2, 1906. The volume is in four parts, each arranged in a separate alphabet, the entries in which, however, are made easily accessible by an index to the whole in one alphabet. In all there are 15,200 records. Besides the auction records there are also an article on "Hodgson's Auction Room," with a picture of the sales room; a sketch of "Edwin Parsons," the well-known London dealer in old books, with a portrait; "Go to Bath," a description of some of the book shops in that famous old city; a sketch of "Dr. Richard Garnett," whose portrait forms the frontispiece, and miscellaneous notes of interest to booksellers. (28+630 p. 8°, cl.)

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—W. A. Butterfield, 59 Bromfield St., Boston, Three special bargains. (4 p. 8°.)—Haar & Steinert, (A. Eichler,) 21 Rue Jacob, Paris, Bibliotheca Latina, compiled by C. E. Ruelle. v. 1. (72 p. 8°, 3 fr.)—Otto Harrassowitz, Leipzig, Slavica. Pt. 1. (No. 666, 1437 titles.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE Postal Commission hearings will be resumed at Washington on November 26.

THE ILLINOIS STATE REGISTER, Springfield, Ill., has just published a volume entitled "Spain's Lost Jewels—Cuba and Mexico," by Senator Thomas Rees, a series of letters in which the author graphically recounts his recent journeys to these countries.

LIFE PUBLISHING COMPANY have just brought out a clever little book by James Montgomery Flagg, entitled "Why They Were Married," which is thought to be a satisfactory answer to a perplexing question by a truthful and discerning writer.

THE MAYHEW PUBLISHING COMPANY, 92 Ruggles Street, Boston, has brought out a new story by Charles Felton Pidgin, entitled "The Hidden Man, a Story of American Middle Life." It is really a story of mystery, full of humor, with a dash of the pathetic.

THROUGH a misunderstanding we announced last week that "The Far Horizon," Lucas Malet's latest story, had just been published. As a matter of fact the book is not yet ready, and the publishers, Dodd, Mead & Co., are unable as yet to give the date of publication.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY in publishing their Christy book this year, "The Christy Girl," have made arrangements to include in each copy a coupon good for a year's subscription to The Reader Magazine, thus offering six dollars' worth of reading matter for three dollars.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO. will publish shortly Mrs. Batcheller's "Glimpses of Italian Court Life;" "Fighting the Polar Ice," by Anthony Fiala; and "Lawns," by Leonard Barron. The only remaining book to be published this year by this firm is "Old New England Churches," by Mrs. Dolores Bacon.

IT is reported from Rome that Gabriele d'Annunzio's play, "More Than Love," which was presented there for the first time on October 29, was a complete failure and was hooted throughout. The plot is said to be insignificant and the artificial prose fatigued and bored the audience.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just brought out a volume on Lord Randolph Churchill, by Lord Rosebery, in which the distinguished author gives his personal reminiscences of his contemporary and life-long friend as well as an inner view of those large phases of English political life which he knows so intimately.

L. C. PAGE announce a new travel book entitled "A Woman Alone in the Heart of Japan," by Mrs. Gertrude Adams Fisher, who did not stop in the cities, but pushed her way inland and found plenty of curious and fantastic things upon which to make interesting comment. The book is illustrated with many pictures reproduced from snap-shots.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY have just ready a book of "Toasts for the Times in Pictures and Rhymes," by John William Sargent, with illustrations by Nella F. Binckley, which has been described as "a rhythmic cocktail of merriment"; also, "Smoke and Bubbles," by the same author and artist, a book of verse that will no doubt be appreciated by the "men of the world."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish about the 8th inst. a holiday edition of Robert Browning's "The Last Ride Together," with illustrations by Frederick S. Coburn; "The Man of Property," by John Galsworthy, a novel descriptive of the life and manners of wealthy Londoners of the upper middle classes; also, "The Enchanted Land," by Louey Chisholm, in which the author retells in a delightful way many of the old fairy tales.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has just published "Historic Bibles of America," being the story of some famous copies owned by Presidents, kings, statesmen and many other persons of distinction, by the Rev. Dr. John Wright, author of several similar works. Mr. Whittaker has also just ready "The King and His Kingdom," by the Rev. C. J. Ridgeway, Dean of Carlisle, and "Religion and Experience," by the Rev. J. Brierley, of England, ("J. B.,") editor of The Christian World.

HENRY HOLT & CO. announce a text book on "Hydraulics," by Professor L. M. Hoskins, of Leland Stanford University, author of a work on "Theoretical Mechanics." Professor Hoskins's new book is intended to serve as a comprehensive basis for the fundamental course in hydraulics usually offered in technical schools. They have also in press an edition of Victor Hugo's poems, prepared by Professor Arthur Graves Canfield, of the University of Michigan, whose collection of French lyrics will be favorably remembered by many American college students.

THE REILLY & BRITTON CO., of Chicago, by special arrangement with Mr. Mansfield, published on October 29 "The Richard Mansfield Acting Version of Peer Gynt," by Henrik Ibsen. The work is issued in attractive form in both paper and cloth editions, and contains lists of the characters and scenes as arranged for stage presentation. Each book is embellished with a frontispiece in half-tone from one of Mr. Mansfield's latest photographs. The book was produced in just five working days, and the first edition of 3500 copies was sold out in the same time. A second edition will be ready at once.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO.'S November publications include "The Birch-Tree Fairy Book," edited by Clifton Johnson, and "Starting in Life"—what each calling offers to ambitious boys—by Nathaniel C. Fowler, Jr., ready about the 10 inst.; "The Stars and Stripes and Other American Flags," by Peleg D. Harrison, ready about the 17th; "Through the Gates of the Netherlands," by Mary E. Waller; "The Land of Enchantment," by Lilian Whiting; and "The Garden and Its Accessories," by Loring Underwood, ready about the 24th; and "The Wonders of the Colorado Desert Region," (Southern California,) by George Wharton James, ready late in the month.

D. C. HEATH & COMPANY will publish at once "An Elementary Treatise on Differential Equations," by Dr. A. Cohen, of Johns Hopkins University, which will be of especial interest to students in engineering, as well as to mathematical instructors generally. Among the autumn volumes in the section of Heath's Belles Lettres Series devoted to early English literature are "The Gospel of Luke in West Saxon," edited by Professor J. W. Bright, of Johns Hopkins University; "The Pearl," edited by Dr. C. G. Osgood, of Princeton University; "The Owl and the Nightingale," edited by Professor J. E. Wells, of Hiram College, Ohio; and a volume of "Early Sixteenth Century Lyrics," edited by Professor F. M. Padelford, of the University of Washington.

JOHN W. LUCE & COMPANY have just brought out a second edition of their Vols. 1 and 2 of the "Plays of Oscar Wilde," containing "Lady Windermere's Fan," "The Importance of Being in Earnest," "An Ideal Husband," and "A Woman of No Importance," and added to the set Vol. 3, containing "Duchess of Padua," "Salome," and "Vera, or, The Nihilists." They have also gone to press again with their issue of Wilde's play "Salome," with reproductions of the Beardsley illustrations. They will publish shortly a little volume of "Recollections of Oscar Wilde," in which personal sketches from the pens of two Frenchmen, Ernest La Jeunesse and Andre Gide; a German, Franz Blei, and a Spaniard, Gomez Carillo, have been freely set into English by Percival Pollard, who also provides a preface.

THE FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY are about to publish "The Creed of Creeds," by F. B. Meyer, whose long-standing popularity as a writer of devotional books will make him a welcome voice on the one great creed—the Apostolic Creed, which is the subject of his new book; "Prose You Ought to Know," by John Raymond Howard, of the firm of Fords, Howard & Hulbert, who has brought to the task of selecting his extracts an experience of almost two score years as publisher and editor, and who aims to bring to the casual reader much good company that he may have missed; also, a new book by Adeline M. Tesky, author of "The Village Artist," entitled "Alexander McBain, B.A., a Prince in Penury," a vivid description of the downfall of a man who had every opportunity to go up instead of down.

MOFFAT, YARD & CO. have ready this week "The Face in the Girandole," by William Frederick Dix, a charming story into which is woven much information about old furniture, of which the author for years has been an ardent collector; "How to Appreciate Music," by Gustav Kobbé, the well-known critic, who addresses himself to those who do not appreciate music, but want to, as well as to all music lovers; also, "Our Constitution," by Edward Waterman Townsend, a popular history, describing why and how the Constitution of the United States was made, who made it, and what it is. They have also just ready the second series of Christy's "Pictures in Colors," including four new subjects—"The Eighth Wonder of the World, the American Girl," "A Fisherman's Luck," "Our Girl Graduate," and "Speeding the Coming Guest."

D. B. UPDIKE, of the Merrymount Press, Boston, announces the publication of The Humanists' Library, under the editorship of Lewis Einstein, author of "The Italian Renaissance in England." The purpose of this Library will be to print in a form near akin to the great traditions of the printer's art in its earliest days a series of books each one of which shall be characteristic of some aspect of the culture which flourished in western Europe during the period of the Renaissance, and it will endeavor to select from the literatures of different nations certain books which find a common unity in being representative of its varying aspects in one of the world's great eras. The first issue, to be ready this month, will be Leonardo da Vinci's "Thoughts on Art and Life," translated by Maurice Baring and edited by Mr. Einstein. The editions will be limited to 303 copies, of which 275 will be for sale.

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY have in press "The Old Schloss," a poem, by Miss Corliess, with pictures, four of them in colors, by students of the Philadelphia Academy of the Fine Arts, to whom the author offered prizes for the best drawings submitted; "The Samaritans," the Bohlen lectures delivered at Holy Trinity Church, Philadelphia, by Dr. James Alan Montgomery, to which the author has added a number of chapters giving much information of this dying sect of Palestine; a collection of poems by Miss Ella Clementine Rodgers; "Poems of Light and Life," by the Rev. Dr. Floyd W. Tomkins, contributed to the New York Home Journal when it was edited by N. P. Willis and to other papers, collected by his sister, Jennie Harrison; also, a booklet by Mrs. W. Hinckle Smith, entitled "Rare Old Recipes," which contains, among others, a recipe for "Lady Baltimore Cake" rendered famous in Owen Wister's story.

PAUL ELDER & CO. have just ready "The Soul of an Artist," translated from the Italian of Neera, by E. L. Murison, with an introduction by L. D. Ventura. This work is a sort of spiritual biography, recalling Amiel and Marie Bashkirtseff, but differing as much from both as each of these self-revelators differs from the other. The heroine, a great actress, writes of the inner life as it seems to a woman of the most exquisite refinement who has attained art's utmost heights. It has been assumed that this heroine is Eleanora Duse; it might be any great tragic actress, so thoroughly does the book ignore all facts of the outward life which would assist in identification. The spirit of the book is that of a pure idealism delicately touched with satiric humor. This is the first book issued from the New York office of Paul Elder & Company, and with the one exception of Keeler's "San Francisco Through Earthquake and Fire," the first book published by them since the San Francisco disaster.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY has published this week "The Romance of John Bainbridge," a novel by Henry George, Jr., whose hero's experiences are based on those of his father's; "Poems," by Alfred Noyes; "Readings in Descriptive and Historical Sociology," by Professor Franklin H. Giddings, of Columbia University; "The Polish Jew: his Social and Economic Value," by Beatrice C. Baskerville; "Northern Spain," painted and described by Edgar T. A. Wigram; "The Rare Adventures and Painefull Peregrinations" of William Lithgow; a "Text-book of Fungi," by George Massee; "Savage Childhood: a Study of Kafir Children," by Dudley Kidd; "The Todas," by W. H. R. Rivers, Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, Eng.; "The Family," by Helen Bosanquet; "New French Course for Schools," Part II., by Charles Copland Perry and Dr. Albrecht Reum, and "An English Grammar,' by Professor George R. Carpenter, of Columbia University. They will publish shortly "The Story Book for Girls," by Miss Christina Gowans Whyte, whose work is said to remind the reader of Louisa M. Alcott's writings.

JOHN LANE COMPANY have gone to press with the third edition of William J. Locke's latest novel, "The Belovéd Vagabond," which was published the middle of October. Mr. Locke's latest previous novel, "The Morals of Marcus Ordeyne," published by the same firm last year, has been dramatized, and is having a successful run on the stage of the Garrick Theatre, London. They desire to call the attention of the trade to the fact that they publish the authorized edition of Oscar Wilde's tragedy, "Salome," in three forms, not in four styles, as it might appear from their advertisement in last week's issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. The three publications dealing with this subject are: (1) a large portfolio in which the Aubrey Beardsley drawings are reproduced from the originals in the same size as the originals. This portfolio contains no letterpress of the play, simply the drawings, and sells for $5 net. (2) An illustrated edition of Oscar Wilde's play in an octavo volume, bound in green and gold, containing a full and complete set of the Aubrey Beardsley drawings, reproduced directly from the originals, which sells for $3.50 net. (3) A small sixteenmo edition, bound in boards, cover design by Aubrey Beardsley, which sells for $1.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just brought out two novels, namely, "Gabrielle, Transgressor," by Harris Dickson, author of "The Ravanels," an unusual romance, with its scenes laid in New Orleans during colonial times, and "Paul," a modern love story, by E. F. Benson, said to be the best book this popular author has yet written. They announce for the holiday season "Italian Days and Ways," by Miss Anne Hollingsworth Wharton, a narrative of travel through Italy that combines some of the elements of a love story. The book will be lavishly illustrated. They have also in preparation another idyllic love story by Ralph Henry Barbour, entitled "A Maid in Arcady," a companion volume to his "Kitty of the Roses" and "An Orchard Princess;" also, "The Adventures of Joujou," by Edith Macvane, a graceful and charming story of a Normandy peasant who as a boy tramped to Paris and ultimately made a fortune in the perfumery business, and of his daughter Joujou, an American girl, a young French marquis and other interesting people. The new juveniles announced by the Lippincotts include the fairy stories "Bluebell and the Sleepy King," by Aubrey Hopwood and Seymour Hicks, and "Legends from Fairyland," by Holme Lee; the boys' stories "The Boys of Brierley Grange," by Fred Whishaw; "Tention!" by George Manville Fenn, and "Foray and Fight" and "Jack Haydon's Quest," by John Finnemore; the girls' stories "Dora: a High School Girl," by May Baldwin; "The Record Term," by Raymond Jacberns, and "The Hill-Top Girl," by Laura T. Meade; and the book of outdoor games, "The Book of Sports and Pastimes," by J. K. Benson.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO. will publish on the 10th inst. "The Golden Days of the Renaissance in Rome," by Rodolfo Lanciani, which covers the history and archæology of the Eternal City in the time of Paul III., Raphael, Michelangelo, Vittoria Colonna and Agostino Chigi, which marked the passing from the mediæval to the modern, and is one of the most important and interesting eras in history; a Cambridge edition of "Shakespeare's Complete Works," edited by William A. Neilson; "The Practice of Diplomacy," by John W. Foster, a companion volume to the author's "A Century of American Diplomacy," which is intended primarily to set forth the part taken by American diplomatists in the elevation and purification of diplomacy, and secondarily to give in popular form the rules and procedure of diplomatic intercourse; "Memoir and Letters of Frederick Daniel Huntington," the first Bishop of Central New York, by Arria S. Huntington; "The Hebrew Literature of Wisdom in the Light of Today," by Professor John F. Genung, who shows the place held by the sages in the Hebrew nation, the rank of their books in the Hebrew canon and the form and nature of their literature, then passes on to point out how infinitely the Hebrew wisdom was extended and elevated by Jesus Christ, and finally links the old and the new in a study of the Epistle of James, in its setting forth of that Love which is the fulfilling of the Law; "The Struggle for a Free Stage in London," by Watson Nicholson, a scholarly account of the history of London theatres between 1660 and 1840; "From Old Fields," by Professor Nathaniel S. Shaler, who during the War between the States was captain of the Fifth Kentucky battery, known as Shaler's battery, and who at his death last April left in manuscript blank verse poems dealing with his war experiences which make up this volume; also, a "Bibliography of James Russell Lowell," compiled by George Willis Cooke.

PICK-UPS.

"BOOKING" THE SENATOR.—Senator W. A. Clark detests nothing more than to be interrupted when busy. One day he was in his office engaged in a business conversation when a petite woman, carrying a black bag, entered. With a compelling smile and an insinuating manner she approached the surly millionaire. Utterly insensible to his repellant mood and indifferent to his abrupt manner she drew from the depths of a bag a handsomely bound volume, the merits and beauty of which she began eloquently to descant upon.

Failing to embarrass her with arctic rigidity and impatient at her persistency under rebuffs all but vulgar, he turned suddenly upon the chattering woman and asked:

"Madame, do you know what my time is worth?"

She confessed it was a conundrum.

"Well," he said petulantly, "it's worth $30 an hour!"

He turned away with the air of one who had settled the matter definitely beyond any further controversy. But he didn't know the woman.

"Oh, I'm so grateful to you, Mr. Clark," she replied, with a tone of pathos in her voice. "Thirty dollars an hour, did you say?"

"Yes; that's what I said, and it's cheap at that," and he smiled cynically.

"Oh, I know it's dirt cheap," she chirped with winsome blitheness. I am so glad you told me"—rummaging in her reticule, from which she quickly flashed out a purse gorged with currency. Moving near to the astonished millionaire, who now regarded her movements with unfeigned curiosity, she counted two bills, a ten and a five, off the roll. These she pushed along the top of the sloping desk toward him and said: "Yes, I'm glad you told me, because I hadn't expected to get it so cheap. There is $15. Now, I want a half hour of your uninterrupted attention while I talk to you about this book."

Clark pushed the money back and subscribed for two copies of the book.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

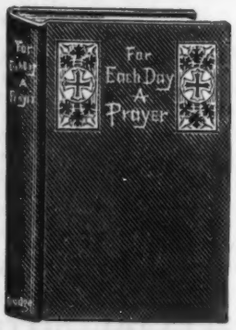
Pleasurable Bookselling

It is a decided pleasure to sell a book of real merit. There is a certain satisfaction in not only making a sale, but in pleasing a customer. The books herein mentioned will bring much joy and pleasure to your customers.

FOR EACH DAY A PRAYER. Here is a most helpful volume—one which will prove a welcome friend to the many who long for something stimulating and refreshing from the world's great storehouse of thought and aspiration. It contains some of the most beautiful prayers ever written. Dr. Van Dyke, Dr. Miller and many others contribute. Printed in red and black, cloth binding, $1.25; ooze leather, boxed, $2.00.



THE GREAT OPTIMIST. We know of no book since the advent of Drummond's Greatest Thing in the World which will so appeal to the hearts of the people as this beautiful series of optimistic essays by Leigh Mitchell Hodges. The first essay alone is worth the price of the volume. It is a gem—a masterpiece of helpful and uplifting writings, which pictures in graphic and beautiful language Christ as the Great Optimist. James Whitcomb Riley calls it "The book beautiful." Beautifully printed and decorated, cloth, $1.00; ooze leather, $2.00.

BREAKING HOME TIES. This beautiful poem, by Max Ehrmann, written after seeing Hovenden's famous painting, will prove to be of wonderful value as a gift to any young man starting out on life's journey. It is full of rare advice. Cloth, $1.25.

THE WORTH OF SERVICE. This is a companion volume to "The Great Optimist." After reading this book—if you are like other folks—you'll be ordering copies by the half-dozen to give away. Cloth, $1.25; ooze leather, $2.00.

Strength for Every Day — Thoughts
For Thy Good Cheer — Borrowings
More Borrowings

The five books listed above contain quotations—not ordinary quotations mind you—but ideal thoughts carefully selected from the works of the greatest thinkers in the world. You will find more that is worth preserving on one page than is frequently found in a small library. Every page is a sermon, every line an inspiration. The best evidence of the great merit of these books is found in their sale. Over 50,000 copies have been circulated and the demand constantly increases. Each volume, cloth, $1.25; ooze leather—just the binding for a gift—$2 00.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF REST. "In four essays," says the Philadelphia Ledger, "full of thought and inspiration, E. A. Fletcher critises the unrest of the present day." The book is full of helpful suggestions as to how to get the most out of life, and attain a more restful existence. "Get away to the woods where the trees will talk to you, or down on the sands by the seashore, where every wave will whisper messages of the throbbing vitality of which you are a part." Beautifully printed in two colors. Cloth, 75 cents.

A PRAYER, AND OTHER SELECTIONS. Probably no prayer written in the last century has attained such great popularity as this prayer by Max Ehrmann. Over a million copies have been circulated. You will find it in the homes of rich and poor, for it permits no distinctions. Markham, the poet, said that it should be graven on granite so that all might read it. We have a most beautiful edition printed in colors and bound in a padded leatherette. Price, 75 cents.

BENVENUTO CELLINI

Translated into English by JOHN ADDINGTON SYMONDS, with an elaborate introduction by ROYAL CORTISSOZ.

A luxurious New Edition of Benvenuto Cellini's Autobiography; one of the most fascinating classics of European Literature.

"A book which the great Goethe thought worthy of translating into German with the pen of Faust and Wilhelm Meister, a book which Auguste Comte placed upon his very limited list for the perusal of reformed humanity, is one with which we have the right to be occupied, not once or twice, but over and over again. It can not lose its freshness. What attracted the encyclopædic names of men so different as Comte and Goethe to its pages still remains there. The adventures of this potent human actuality will bear comparison with those of Gil Blas, the Comte of Monte Cristo, or Quentin Durward, or Les Trois Mousquetaires, for their variety and their purgent interest."—JOHN ADDINGTON SYMONDS.

Printed on special hand-made paper, containing 40 full-page photogravure illustrations, with artistic cover design. 2 volumes, bound in cloth, boxed, $6.00 net; express extra.

American Standard Bible

The Perfect Bible, Edited by the American Revision Committee

We purpose telling here and in the great Religious and Secular periodicals why the people demand THE AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE, and why booksellers should sell it.

Why is the American Standard the People's Bible?

Its accuracy, clearness and simplicity make it eminently the people's Bible. Every stumbling block to the perfect understanding of the word has been removed, so far as lay within the power of the wisest scholarship.

Why is the American Standard Bible the Scholar's Bible?

The unqualified approval of the leading ministers of all denominations, presidents of colleges, of theological seminaries, of Bible training schools, the leading critical journals, the great religious papers of the world, professors and scholars, attest that for them, as well as for the general public, THE AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE is the most perfect English Bible in existence. Hundreds of colleges and seminaries throughout the country use it in their regular chapel services and as a textbook in Bible study.

FIRST AID TO THE BOOKSELLER

IN SEARCH OF CHRISTMAS BUYERS

AT this busy season every live bookseller is considering plans for holiday cataloging. The question with him is how to make his Christmas announcements with dignity and effect without spending too much time and money in the production of an attractive catalog.

This problem is fully answered in the use of "The Christmas Bookshelf" (the Christmas number of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY) with the dealer's own imprint. It is a magazine-catalog of about 240 pages, copiously illustrated with specimen illustrations from the best books of the year. It contains a most attractive assemblage of the best new issues of all the publishers, with ample descriptive notices. A feature is the carefully prepared purchase list, which, with the publishers' own advertisements, gives a comprehensive survey of about all a bookseller would be likely to keep in stock during the holiday season.

It is a Christmas Catalog your customers would feel flattered in receiving!

The price, for editions with the bookseller's own imprint, is based on cost of paper and press work only, without counting cost of composition, and is, therefore, much below the cost of a catalog made by any bookseller for himself.

THE CHRISTMAS BOOKSHELF, IMPRINTED

Per 100 Copies	$10.00
" 250 "	20.00
" 500 "	38.00
" 1000 "	75.00

We remind you that it is necessary to have orders early, so as to regulate the size of the edition. Last year a number of belated orders came after printing was completed and edition sold.

We will be glad to send you a sample copy of last year's issue on request.

¶ The only Toast Book published in which every toast is illustrated.

¶ It has been aptly called "A rhythmic cocktail of merriment."

¶ Sprightly in its verse, humor and art.

SMOKE AND BUBBLES

Verses by JOHN WILLIAM SARGENT
Drawings by NELLA F. BINCKLEY

Publication Day, November 1st

¶ A book of rollicking, snappy verse, full of quip and quirk.

¶ The rhymes are most apropos; the eighty illustrations show a resourcefulness and originality that compel admiration.

¶ SMOKE AND BUBBLES will make an appropriate and smart gift book for that "clever friend."

Handsomely bound, gilt tops, each $1.00 net
